HAVE A BRASS BED?

"I'm no millionaire." That's the impression 9 people out of ten have regarding the dressiest piece of chamber furniture ever designed—"too high priced for me." Now, if you'd only keep in touch with this big store, you'd learn that its liberal methods of merchandising are daily bringing lots of so called extravagances within easy reach of your pocket books.

ONLY $18.00

One man in his surprise said, "it must be imitation." Well, it's all real brass, and a beauty, too. Heavy 1¼ in. posts with ⅝ and ⅝ in. fillers, double rails and spindles at head and foot, and the fashionable flat vases on the corners. Old fashioned methods would price this bed according to its beauty and would say $25. Our method is to get all we can out of the maker and to give all we can to the customer—that's the difference. Just let your curiosity lead you in here some time. We'll save you dollars and give you satisfaction you can't get elsewhere.

LATEST NAVAL NEWS.

Orders to Officers and Movements of Vessels Reported Today.

(Special despatch to the News.)

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The following orders to officers were issued by the Navy Department today:

Assistant Surgeon E. H. H. Old, detached from the medical school at Washington and ordered to the naval training station at San Francisco.

Paymaster John R. Sanford, ordered to the New Jersey.

Chaplain E. E. McDonald, detached from the Iowa and ordered home.

The following movements of naval vessels were reported today to the department:

Arrived—Sioux at Boston, Wilmington at Canton, Dolphin at Annapolis, Dubuque at San Juan, Hopkins, Worden, Truxtun, Stewart, Lawrence and MacDonough, at Key West; Florida and Nevada, at League Island.

Sailed—Nina, from New York for Newport; Lawton, from Honolulu for Tutuila; Iris, from Hong Kong for Cavite; Monadnock, from Canton for Cavite.

Patchin.

Reported by Wireless.

NANTUCKET, Mass., April 25.—White Star line steamer Teutonic, from Liverpool and Queenstown, was in communication with the station here when the vessel was 120 miles east of the Nantucket lightship at 4:20 a. m., west bound. The vessel will probably dock about 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

Steamer Deutschland, from Hamburg, etc., for New York, was in communication by wireless with the station here, when 150 miles east of Nantucket lightship at 12:20 p. m.

CAN MEET EVERY EVENTUALITY.

Police Will Endeavor to Localize Manifestation to Labor Centre.

PARIS, April 25.—According to a semi-official statement made by a high functionary of the prefecture of police today, the military and police are prepared to meet every eventuality. May 1. He said the police canvass shows that 50,000 men have stopped work, of which number the disorderly element does not exceed 20,000. Against these can be massed 42,000 to 45,000 troops, namely, 20,000 infantry, 10,000 cavalry and 10,000 to 15,000 Republican guards and police, with large additional reserves. The police will endeavor to localize the manifestation to the place de La Republique, which is the great labor centre, and to the vicinity of the labor exchange. This will prevent the manifestants from gaining the centre of Paris, or getting west of the Place de La Concorde, into the residential sections of the Champs Elysees or Passy.

It is expected that the strength of the military and police will readily enable them to confine the disorderly element within its own eastern sections, thus reducing the demonstration to isolated affrays which should easily be controlled. The police are convinced that there is no danger of a lack of food supplies owing to the strike in the provision trades. They declare that the dealers in provisions are reaping a harvest by spreading alarmists' reports. The police are in favor of closing the stores altogether. In conclusion the official of the prefecture stated that the situation, while serious, does not warrant being represented as tragic. The painters have decided to stop work May 1 and to remain out until they are granted an eight hour day and a weekly holiday.

TO SEND MONEY TO EX-MAYOR PHELAN

Gifts Not to be Made Now to the Red Cross.

Roosevelt Issues Proclamation to the People.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—In a proclamation issued today, President Roosevelt urges the American people now to send their contributions for the alleviation of the distress in San Francisco directly to former Mayor James D. Phelan, chairman of the finance committee in San Francisco, instead of the American Red Cross. The President pays a high tribute to the work accomplished by the citizens' committees of San Francisco, and indicates that the necessity for working through the Red Cross exclusively has passed. The text of the proclamation follows:

"To the Public: When the news of the dreadful disaster at San Francisco first came it was necessary to take immediate steps to provide in some way for the distribution of the sums of money which at once poured in for the relief of the people of San Francisco. At the moment, as no one could foretell how soon it would be possible for the people of San Francisco themselves to organize and to tide over the interval, the American National Red Cross Association was designated to receive and disburse the funds. But the people of San Francisco, with an energy and self-reliant courage, a cool resourcefulness and a capacity for organized and orderly endeavor which are beyond all praise, have already met the need through committees appointed by the mayor of the city, ex-Mayor James D. Phelan being chairman of the finance committee. The work of these committees has been astonishing in its range, promptness and efficiency.

"As I am informed by Major General Greely, although all local transportation was destroyed, as well as practically every supply store in the city, these local committees, with the help of the army, have succeeded in caring for 300,000 homeless people in the last five days. Thanks to their efforts, no individual is now suffering severely for food, water or temporary shelter. This work has been done with the minimum of waste, and under conditions which would have appalled men less trained in business methods, endowed with less ability, or inspired with any but the highest motives of humanity and helpfulness. The need of employing the Red Cross, save as an auxiliary, has passed, and I urge that hereafter all contributions from any source be sent direct to James D. Phelan, chairman of finance committee, San Francisco. Mr. Devine of the Red Cross will disburse any contributions sent to him through ex-Mayor Phelan, and will work in accord with him in all ways.

"Theodore Roosevelt."

In connection with the proclamation, the President authorized the publication of a telegram which he had sent to Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco, acknowledging the receipt of a telegram signed by the mayor, Judge Morrow, ex-Mayor Phelan and others. In the telegram, the President quotes the proclamation he had issued, and then adds to it as follows:

"There was of course absolutely no question that every sufferer would be helped simply as a sufferer by your committee as soon as they were organized, and action through the Red Cross was simply to fill the gap until your organization was perfected, and it would of course have been a dereliction of duty on our part if we had not at once taken steps to see that the gap was filled at a time when it was impossible for us to know how soon you would be organized. I have sent a message to Congress today, urging an immediate appropriation for work at the Mare Island navy yard and for an immediate appropriation for the building asked for by the War Department. In a few days I shall send in a further communication for the rebuilding of the other public buildings, but I am not yet able to get details as to the amount needed for these.

TO ACT AS FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Known Loss of Life Less Than 300, and 400 Injured.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Dr. Edward T. Devine, who was sent to San Francisco to distribute the relief funds of the Red Cross, notified the New York office of the Red Cross today that he had made arrangements by which the finance committee of the citizens' relief committee of San Francisco will act as finance committee of the Red Cross. Dr. Devine has also suggested to the Washington authorities that remittances of money should be sent to that committee. Dr. Devine's telegram received today states that the known loss of life is less than 300, and about 400 were injured.

FURTHER LIST OF DEAD.

Reported by General Greely to the War Department.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The War Department today received a telegram from General Greely, dated Fort Mason yesterday, giving a further list of dead as follows:

"Following named dead are reported in addition to list sent last night: Albert D. Slaughter, Margaret Miles, Anne Mary Petrig, unknown man, Joseph H. Aebi, Jons Sorensen, Mel Maclair, Holber M. Mausen, Patrick Duckert, Denis T. Sullivan, Bernard Shay, Jules Jauzi, Amelio Marco, N. A. Hustell, John Fauth, Francis Mercier, Teresa Roche.

"Two hundred and twenty-one injured are being cared for at General hospital, Presidio; 784 at Park emergency hospital, making 1,005 injured so far reported. No further reports on this subject will be rendered unless specially called for."

Sultan Replies Unfavorably.

CAIRO, Egypt, April 25.—The Sultan of Turkey has replied unfavorably to the Khedives suggestions regarding the Taban boundary question. The matter will now be handed over the British government and the Porte for settlement.

RESTORATION WORK WELL UNDER WAY

Streets Being Cleared and Water Mains Repaired.

Mayor's Letter Results in Little Shooting Done.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—It is a week today since this city was visited by an earthquake which laid low the metropolis of the Pacific coast, and started a conflagration unequalled in the history of this county. Although the glow of the dying embers of the great fire nightly illuminate the sky, the work of restoration is already well under way.

Plans for the construction of the new buildings are rapidly being drawn, and work on some of them will begin as soon as the ruins of the old sites are cold. Many of the new buildings planned are on a larger scale than those burned, giving promise that from the ashes will rise a new San Francisco greater and more beautiful than the old.

In addition to the large force of men and teams already at work, about 60 teams of government mules were put to work yesterday hauling away debris. Several more streets were cleared for traffic, numerous street car lines are ready for operation, while the repairing of the water mains and the restoration of the gas and electric systems is making rapid headway. Work on taking down and rebuilding the ferry tower began today.

The exodus from the city continues. It is estimated that 60,000 persons were furnished with free transportation to the different parts of the state by the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railways. The relief work is now thoroughly organized. Many carloads of provisions and supplies are being received daily, five cars were received from southern California, among other things 3,000 blankets, which were immediately distributed at the transport docks by the marines. The blankets came at an opportune time, but are insignificant in number to what are actually required.

The rain was followed by a clear cold night, causing much distress in the parks and crowded camps for want of dry bedding, blankets, cots and waterproof tents.

As a result of Mayor Schmitz's sharp letter last evening to General Koster, commanding the National Guard, in which the mayor called the general's attention to the fact that the city was not under martial law and that the drastic measures and arbitrary actions of some of his men which caused so much complaint were illegal, and requested him to put a stop to it, there was but little shooting last night in the district over which the militia held sway.

A looter, who, it is stated, broke into several places on Vallejo street, was reported to have been shot by a marine sentry. Several bullets fired from the water front struck a Red Cross launch in which Dr. Diggins, of the emergency hospital service, was going from the Potrero district to the Presidio. The shooting was done while the launch was off the ferry depot. None of the occupants were hit. The bluejackets who patrol that section of the water front disclaim all knowledge of the shooting.

SAN FRANCISCO QUIETING DOWN.

Telegraph Communication Re-Established With Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Things are quieting down in San Francisco. Telephonic communication with Oakland has been re-established and will be resumed to the undestroyed portions of this city in a few days. The belt railroad is now operating around the water front, and all sorts of relief supplies are being distributed from there. The electric lights were started on East street last night, and these will be extended to the wharves right away.

An official list of the condition of the school buildings throughout the city shows that 20 buildings were utterly destroyed, and that 44 were at least partially damaged. Many of the latter were so damaged that they will have to be pulled down.

Surgeon General Gerard of the United States army has taken possession of the Crocker grammar school on Page street for the benefit of the sick people in the park, who will all be removed to that place for care and shelter. There is floor space for 300 patients. A force of 200 physicians and surgeons is now making a house-to-house investigation of sanitary conditions under orders of the health commission.

There are 107 companies to share the San Francisco loss. This loss is estimated by the local agents at between $175,000,000 and $200,000,000, but New York sends word that the insurance men there think the loss will not exceed $125,000,000. Chicago's loss was $125,000,000, and three companies defaulted to the amount of $45,000,000. The loss in Baltimore was paid in full, yet amounted to $35,000,000.

The state supreme court has made a sweeping order, granting a re-hearing in all cases in which a petition has been filed, and in which the time for granting a re-hearing will expire before the first of May. A similar order was made in respect to appeals in that court from the United States district court of appeals.

Train service on the Southern Pacific's coast division, operating between this city and Los Angeles via San Jose, will be resumed today. Service will also be resumed between San Jose and Santa Cruz, Monterey, Salinas, San Luis Obispo, etc.

FOR MARE ISLAND YARD.

President Asks Congress to Approximate Sum of $300,000.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Roosevelt today sent the following special message to Congress:

"The Senate and House of Representatives: I herewith enclose communications from the Navy Department and the War Department in reference to communications from Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco and from other representatives of California.

RUSSIA SHOWS THE CLOVEN FOOT

Arouses Indignation by Draft of Constitution.

Possibility of General Uprising in the Empire.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 25.—The political situation has suddenly grown threatening. The publication yesterday of the draft of the new "fundamental law" or "constitution" of Russia has aroused a storm of indignation, and amidst the present general distrust of the government's motives has furnished just the stimulus needed to solidify the entire opposition in Parliament. The Reich insists that, with the realization of the new Russian dawn and under the false conviction that the revolution is suppressed, the government has not hesitated to again show the cloven hoof, not even masking its intention to dissolve Parliament if it is found to be troublesome."

M. Brianchaninoff in the Slove today calls the draft of the "fundamental law" a "mockery which will be resented by every honest man, be he a member of the 'black hundred' or a social revolutionist," adding: "Such a mixture of lies and false logic on the eve of the assembling of the real masters of the country can only tend to push the people to a fresh revolution, with its attending conflicts and anarchy. The existing regime seems fated to go down in blood."

A real dangerous element in the situation, however, is not in the attitude of the Liberals, but in the possibility of another upheaval from below at the very moment when the intellectual forces of the country had been united. For some time the Social Democrats and other proletariat organizations have been trying to arrange a general uprising to coincide with the convocation of Parliament, but apparently they were making no headway. Now, however, a great movement among the idle workmen of the capital, who number 42,000, has come to the surface, and there is more than a suspicion that this movement is simply a cover for a real uprising which is being organized behind it. Big meetings of men out of work held in the suburbs during the last few nights were attended by orators of the Social Democratic party.

A council of men out of work has also sprung into existence. The men out of work demand that the city within a week shall put them to work upon the construction of new street railroads and bridges, for which $1,000,000 has been appropriated. The men out of work also announce that they will send a delegation of 87 representatives to the city council tonight, to receive the final answer of the municipality.

There is a striking analogy between the methods now adopted by the workmen and those preceding "red Sunday," January 22, 1905, and many people believe that they see in the new organization the hand of Gapon. All trace of the former priest has been lost.

It is significant that the head keeper of the local prison has received a letter signed by the Workmen's League, warning him that the prisoners will be liberated May 10, but saying that his life will be spared if he does not interfere.

PEASANTS TRIED TO STEAL GRAIN.

Resulted in Fight With Cossacks and Guards.

VORONEZH, Russia, April 25.—News received here today from the village of Diewitza, where it was announced yesterday that Cossacks killed 19 and wounded 50 persons in suppressing peasant disorders, shows that the trouble arose when the peasants attempted to take some grain from the municipal stores. The guards protested, and finally one of them shot a pregnant woman, whereupon the peasants assembled with scythes and axes. The guards fired repeated volleys at the peasants, killing 11 men. Cossacks finally came up to support the guards, and the peasants were driven off. It is presumed that it was during this conflict that the Cossacks killed the 19 peasants.

BURIAL OF JOHN PAUL JONES.

Roosevelt Spoke to 10,000 Cheering Men and Women.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 24.—Reverently attended by the official head of the nation he loved and served so well, by the ambassadorial representative of the land in which he died, by the Chief Executive of the State beneath whose sod his bones will find their final rest, by naval representatives of the United States and France, and by thousands of the men and women of the country whose first admiral he was, the remains of John Paul Jones were today given sepulture in the crypt beneath the grand marble stairway of Bancroft Hall, there to rest until the completion of the chapel of the Naval Academy, in which they are to be deposited.

Crowds such as the ancient capital of Maryland has not known for many years, if ever before, lined the streets before the train bearing President Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, members of the Cabinet, the French Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, and a large number of distinguished naval officers and civil dignitaries was expected.

In the depot yard were Admiral Sands and the entire academic board of the Naval Academy, and Colonel Charles A. P. Hatfield, with two troops of the Thirteenth Cavalry and the regimental band. On his arrival the President, accompanied by Admiral Sands, entered an automobile, and escorted by the cavalry, the party proceeded to the Naval Academy.

As President Roosevelt entered the grounds a national salute of 21 guns boomed out from the old Hartford, once the flagship of Admiral Farragut. Drawn up opposite the residence of the superintendent to receive the head of the nation was the marine battalion and the Naval Academy band. An elaborate luncheon given by Admiral Sands, at which there were about 150 guests, preceded the formal exercises of the day.

Early this morning the casket containing the remains of the Admiral was removed from the temporary vault in which they have rested since being brought from France, and deposited in the new armory of the Naval Academy in front of the speakers' stand. The oaken casket was quite hidden from view by the National flag, and upon it rested two crossed palms, a wreath of green and the sword presented to the great naval commander by a King of France. Nearby a sentinel continued the vigil that has never ceased since the casket first rested upon American soil.

Out in the bay rode at anchor three warships flying the tri-color of France, the Admiral Aube, the Conde and the Marseilles, under the command of Admiral Camplon. Beside them were United States battleships Alabama, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, the cruisers Cleveland, Minneapolis, Des Moines and Denver and the yacht Mayflower. From these came more than 1,500 sailors and marines, 200 of the former being from the French vessels, who lined the route to the armory taken by President Roosevelt and the other dignitaries.

When the President entered the armory it was to face 10,000 standing, cheering men and women. The applause broke out afresh when the Oratorio Society of Baltimore, placed on a terraced platform at the end of the armory, sang "The Star Spangled Banner." When this was finished Secretary of the Navy Charles J. Bonaparte, stepping to the front of the speakers' stand, introduced President Roosevelt, who rising, was again greeted by a burst of applause.

"The Marseillaise" was then rendered by the Oratorio Society. The Secretary of the Navy then announced the French ambassador, M. Jusserand. The address of the ambassador was followed by Handel's "Around About Thy Starry Throne," sung by the Oratorio Society.

Introducing General Horace Porter of New York, Secretary Bonaparte said: "For more than a century the mortal remains of our first great sailor lay in an unknown grave, lost to his country and the world. The generosity and patriotism of a distinguished citizen, already noted for eminent public service in war and peace, has freed us from this national reproach. I introduce to you General Horace Porter."

General Porter reviewed the career of Admiral Jones and described the discovery and final identification of his body.

General Porter was followed by Governor Warfield of Maryland, at the conclusion of whose address the audience rose and remained standing while body bearers, selected from among the petty officers of the United States and French warships, lifted the casket and bore it from the armory. Just outside it was placed upon a truck drawn by a long line of sailors, and the procession moved slowly toward Bancroft Hall, the Naval Academy band playing the "Dead March" from "Saul."

When the casket had been placed beneath the stairway, where it is to rest under constant guard, Chaplain Clark said a brief prayer and the ceremonies were at an end.

SAN FRANCISCO HURT.

Resent President's Message That Chinese Were Neglected.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—The citizens of San Francisco had done so splendidly in the face of such an appalling catastrophe that some little consternation was created this morning when President Roosevelt's proclamation was read, turning over to Dr. Edward Devine of the National Red Cross the management of relief measures and the distribution of the great funds, so generously appropriated by Congress. This feeling was evinced because of the President's recommendation to the people of the United States that their contributions of food and supplies and money should be diverted into the same hands. If there was a momentary feeling that the men who had endured the heat and the burden of the day were being unfairly treated by this diversion of authority into new and foreign keeping, it was soon dissipated.

At a conference at Fort Mason, attended by Generals Greely and Funston, Mayor Schmitz, Governor Pardee, Dr. Devine and some others, it was agreed that this was the case, and that Dr. Devine himself should frame a telegram to the President, informing him of the splendid work already done and of his perfect willingness to assist in forwarding the measures already taken—what hurt even more than this was the suggestion made in the telegram from President Roosevelt to Secretary of War Taft that reports had reached him that less charity was being shown the Chinese who dwelt here than the whites, directing that if this be true the situation should be remedied at once.

If the people of San Francisco are not willing to live with the Chinese, it was felt that the name they have earned in the past for charity and open-heartedness should have saved them from any suggestion of having permitted any human being—white, black or yellow—within their reach to suffer. Mature reflections, however, brought the conviction that the truth had not reached President Roosevelt, and a special message was sent him, signed by the constituted authorities, recounting the exact facts. The message follows:

"President Roosevelt, White House, Washington:

"All reports that the people or the officials of the relief committees of San Francisco are making any distinction in relieving, succoring or protecting the Chinese or any other people differing in race or color are totally false and entirely unfounded. The committees and even the homeless sufferers themselves are treating the Chinese and all other fellow-unfortunates with the consideration worthy of our civilization and our country.

"The people of San Francisco are striving with all their hearts to relieve their destitute, care for the sick, protect their helpless and uplift their stricken, irrespective of race, color or creed, in accordance with the dictates of humanity, in a manner worthy of Americans and in the common brotherhood of man. Please give press.

TWO HUNDREDTH ANNIVERSARY

Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia Celebrates Organization.

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—Delegates from England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, and from every section of this country, are here participating in the two hundredth anniversary of the organization of the Presbyterial church. The opening services were held in the First Presbyterian Church, Rev. Dr. Edward Yates, pastor of the church, presiding.

The speakers reviewed the progress of the Presbyterian church in the United States since the establishment of the Presbytery. Addresses were made by Rev. William Henry Roberts, stated clerk of the general assembly, on "The Period of Isolated Congregations and the General Presbytery (1614-1716);" Rev. Dr. Henry C. McCook on "The Period of the General Synod (1717-1788)"; Rev. Dr. John de Witt of Princeton Theological Seminary on "The Period of the General Assembly (1789-1900)."

VIOLENT ATTACK ON AMERICANS.

Says Masons and Jews are Responsible for Revolution.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 24.—A violent attack on Americans was made today in the monarchist convention at Moscow by M. Shmakoff, the celebrated reactionary, who attempted to stir up anti-foreign feelings by declaring that the revolution in Russia was inspired and directed by American Masonic organizations working through the Jews and the Social Democrats. M. Shmakoff was loudly applauded when he intimated that it was necessary to arouse the populace against reformers, Jews and foreigners.

The Chinese of Manhattan have turned in to the mayor's office $2,700 for the relief of the San Francisco sufferers, and have promised that there is more to come. When asked if the fund was to be used for the benefit of the Chinese only, the spokesman replied, "No, just put it in the general fund for everybody."

Taken as directed, it becomes the greatest curative agent for the relief of suffering humanity ever devised. Such is Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

RATE DISCRIMINATION FOUND.

Interstate Commerce Commission Sustains Complaint of the Enterprise Company.

The report and opinion of the Interstate Commerce Commission in a proceeding entitled "In the Matter of Alleged Unlawful Discrimination Against the Enterprise Transportation Company by Railroad Lines Leading from New York City," was yesterday announced in Washington in an opinion by Commissioner Prouty. The opinion sets forth that it appears that railroad lines leading west from New York city make joint through rates with the New England Navigation Company, and the rail lines centering in New York and running westerly thereof refuse for stated business reasons to make the same or any joint rating in arrangement with the Enterprise Transportation Company, a steamship line plying between Fall River and other New England points and New York city. The commission says this Fall River line may by reducing rates on local traffic force out of business the Enterprise Transportation Company, while obtaining a lucrative and supporting business from through traffic, and upon disappearance of such competition restore the former charges.

This investigation was made with the understanding that the commission is without power to grant any relief, it is recited, and no opinion as to whether the through routing arrangments should be extended to the Enterprise Company is expressed, but the commission is of the opinion that if the public is to have the legitimate benefit of water competition it is evident that authority should be provided to establish through routes between rail and water carriers, or at least to prevent unjust discrimination by rail carriers between connecting water lines.

NO CHANGE IN OFFICERS.

Annual Business Meeting, Election and Dinner of the Newport Artillery Company.

According to the custom which has been followed whenever possible on the last Tuesday evening in April of each year since the company was organized in 1741, the Newport Artillery Company held last evening its annual business meeting and election of officers, being preceded as in recent years by a dinner. About 70 of the active and life members were present and enjoyed the excellent menu provided by

COLONEL C. L. F. ROBINSON.
Commanding the Newport Artillery.

Caterer Sigmund Barber. After the dinner there were brief remarks by Captain Porter, Surgeon Barker, David M. Coggeshall and others.

At the business meeting the reports of the various officers and committees were read, that of the finance committee showing the company to be in excellent condition, the various funds aggregating $9,286.65. The election resulted in the unanimous return of all the officers as follows:

Colonel—Charles L. F. Robinson.
Lieutenant Colonel—Eward F. Cooper.
Major—George S. Flagg.
Captain—Frank S. Patterson.
Adjutant—Frank P. King.
Quartermaster—Sidney D. Harvey.
Paymaster—Harold M. Sherman.
Assistant Paymaster—Clarence A. Peabody.
Commissary—Silas H. Hazard.
Surgeon—Dr. Christopher F. Barker.
Assistant Surgeon—Charles M. Cole.
Chaplain—Rev. E. H. Porter, D. D.
Inspector of Rifle Practice—J. J. Peckham.
Sergeants—Robert C. Ebbs, Charles H. Barlow, Arthur A. Sherman, Gustave E. Shoon, Carl A. Swanson.

Colonel Robinson was unable to be present, having been called to Hartford in the afternoon on business.

GEORGE W. CABLE.

This is the latest portrait of George W. Cable, the popular writer, and founder of Home Culture Clubs—designed to promote more cordial relations between divergent ranks of society. A chatty account of "Where to Find What" from his pen appears in the May Century. Mr. Cable is of Southern birth, but his home has been in Northampton, Mass., for many years past.

"WHISTLER."

This clever little book is the first in the Spirit of the Age series, issued by John W. Luce & Co. These present studies of the life and achievements of the great spirits of the age in art, literature, music and politics, the chief aim being to give the reader a living, marching personality, breathing with the individuality characteristic of the person." This purpose has been fulfilled in "Whistler," by Baldone Macfall. It was of this artist that Whistler said: "Ha, Ha! This man knows." The book treats of the man, his career, and "that which he spoke," the whole being a perfect pen portrait of the great artist. Mr. Macfall calls Whistler "part butterfly, part wasp, wholly laughing enigma," and the truth of this characterization is felt on every page.

The book has a pretty cover of dull blue, dotted with butterflies, Whistler's signature. There are four illustrations selected from the artist's work—La Princess du Pays de la Porcelaine, Carlyle, The Fur Jacket and The Thames in Ice.

PERSONALS.

....Dr. Howard Turner, Clifton, Bristol, England, made a will containing the strange direction that no person benefitting under it should attend his funeral "under pain of forfeiture of his interest."

....The death is announced in County Tyrone, Ireland, of George Fletcher, the oldest British subject so far as known. He was 118 years old. King Edward recently presented Fletcher a gold snuffbox.

....Mme. Marchest celebrated her eightieth birthday March 26 at her home in the Rue Jouffroy, in Paris. She is still engaged every day in giving lessons and is a remarkable example of conserved energy and vivacity.

....Manley Lawton of Pewee Valley, Ky., who has just received his appointment as a cadet to West Point, is the oldest son of the late Major General Henry W. Lawton. At the age of eleven he was under fire in the Philippines, where he had gone with his father.

....Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco is a labor leader. He is a musician, and was formerly secretary of the Musicians' Union. When elected mayor the first time he was leader of the orchestra of the Columbia Theatre. He was elected mayor for the third time last fall after a bitter campaign.

....Frank Shooter, who has just retired as superintendent of the Exeter, England, bathing ground, has in the last quarter of a century saved more than 300 lives. Shooter holds all the premier awards of the Royal Humane Society. A gold medal was presented to him, with 100 sovereigns, by the Exeter citizens, and he has received letters of commendation from statesmen and others for his conspicuous gallantry. Shooter once swam 100 yards along a mill stream under a road in complete darkness, and snatched a boy from death, just as the latter had reached a large water wheel.

....Paul Knapp, a half-breed Pottawatomie, 19 years old, has been appointed to a West Point cadetship. Young Knapp was born near Hartford, Mich., but for years has lived with his parents in Benton Harbor, where he received the greater part of his education in the public schools. Later he went to the Haskell Institute, a school for Indians in Lawrence, Kan. Last August he returned to Benton Harbor, and has been doing such work as he could get. Some time ago he wrote to Indian Commissioner Leupp, who became interested in him, and the result was his appointment by the President.

MAN AND HOSS.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

"I've observed," said Deacon Grafby,
"man and hoss are much the same;
Let 'em know that you're the master
And they're likely to be tame;
But you give 'em cause for thinkin'
That you're anyways afraid
And you'll get yourself in trouble just as sure as eggs are laid.

"There was Joe Sykes owned a critter
That had never run away,
Till Joe's wife was in the buggy drivin'
by herself, one day;
Well, she got to feelin' nervous, and the hoss, o' course, he knew,
So he kicked the rig to pieces,' after which away he flew.

"Joe himself was just as honest as the longest day was long,
And I reckon that he never had a
thought of goin' wrong,
Till his wife got fool suspicious and began to fret and stew,
Thinkin' that he didn't love 'er and was cousin' to be true.

"If he spoke to other women she'd be jealous of 'em, so
'Twasn't long before a widow (grass)
eloped with Mister Joe!
I, of course, don't wish to argue that he shouldn't get the blame,
But it only goes to show you man and hoss are much the same."

ENGLISH SPINNERS PRESENT.

Annual Meeting of New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association.

BOSTON, April 25.—More than ordinary preparation has been made for the fourth annual meeting of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association, which was to open a two days' convention today at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The presence of a commission representing prominent English spinners who have come to this country to investigate the growing of cotton and other questions connected with the raw material was one of the features of the convention. Among the important matters to be passed upon was a proposition favored by the board of government to change the name of the association to that of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. After a welcome to the Institute by President Henry S. Pritchett and to the commonwealth by Lieutenant Governor Eben S. Draper came the annual address of the president, James R. MacColl of Providence.

THE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Immediately after the Baltimore fire it was estimated that the losses were $200,000,000 and the insurance was $125,000,000, and the ruin of a number of companies was predicted. When the final adjustments were made the value of the destroyed property was found to be much less than had been estimated while the ruins were smoking, and the insurance companies paid $99,699,000 and none of them were ruined except a few small Baltimore companies. The total value of property destroyed in Chicago was ultimately computed at a little less than $200,000,000, while the insurance liabilities were $88,000,000, about half of which were paid; that fire destroyed many companies and left their policy holders with nothing or only a part of what they expected.

These comparisons suggest that some of the present estimates of the San Francisco losses and the effects upon the underwriters will shrink. The estimate of $500,000,000 worth of property destroyed is clearly an exaggeration, and probably the estimate of $300,000,000 will prove to be much in excess of the real amount. There is a good deal of salvage. A building which cost six or eight millions and was reported to have been destroyed is now found to be capable of being put in repair for a few hundred thousands. A large part of the buildings were cheap and old. Of the newer and more expensive buildings many are badly damaged, but can be repaired.

The liability of insurance companies has been estimated at $125,000,000 and by some at much above that, but the early estimates are so often excessive that this sum may be reduced to less than $100,000,000. The companies have had several years of good business; last year was one of the best they ever had. They have accumulated surpluses, and one of them has already raised its rates 25 per cent. Few casualties among the underwriting concerns are looked for this time.

COLLEGE PROFESSORS' SALARIES.

There is a somewhat prevalent opinion that college professors are well paid and have an easy life, with large remuneration, while as a matter of fact there is hardly a profession which yields so small a return for the amount of labor and the quality of work required than collegiate teaching. A professor of a Western college died recently and it was found that his estate amounted to the sum of $10,060, which represented the savings of 64 years of life as a teacher of higher education, a mere pittance as compared with the earnings of men of equal or inferior ability in other professions or walks of life. If the talents which this man possessed and used to the benefit of mankind had had their field in the practice of medicine or law or in commercial or financial life he might have accumulated thousands where he had laid up hundreds.

This is no isolated case, but the common experience of college professors with rare exceptions. There is a life which requires long and expensive preparation, lavish expenditures for books and other equipment, and as a return a bare $1,000 a year as the greatest reward of almost the highest goal that can be reached. The prevalent idea that the college professor's pursuit is remunerative is far from the truth; on the contrary, it holds out no promise for large financial returns to those who stand at its threshold and deliberately choose it for their life work. The charge of a mercenary spirit is about the last that can be brought against those who follow this path in life.

Of course there are compensations for the lack of wealth which is the professor's lot. There is culture, which represents to him the highest happiness; and the companionship of the educated, which is a constant delight, and the feeling that he is doing something to inspire in others that love of knowledge which animates his life, which is a never-ending source of pleasure and contentment. The life of the professor is by no means joyless; on the contrary, it may be fuller of that element than the lives of those of other professions or pursuits which yield more money. But the fact remains that the profession is poorly paid and that the labor and the talent which here find a field deserve a better reward than they receive. If this were not so nothing would be heard of a fund for the care of aged educators and colleges would not be under the necessity of pensioning their worn-out professors who are no longer able to meet their classes. Long years of preparation for a life work and long years of exacting mental effort in that work merit a large return in money as well as in contentment, happiness and usefulness.

POLITICAL REFORM.

Politics ought to be as honest as business. That will still leave something to be desired, because there are sharp tricks in trade and traders to whom the end justifies the means. But when politics is as honest as business we shall have attained as much as can be hoped for, and probably shall have made business honester. District Attorney Jerome is not the only one of our moral philosophers who sees a close connection between "grafting" in politics and "grafting" in business, from the contractor who pays money to obtain an award to the salesman who pays money to the foreman to gain an order, and the grocer who gives tips to the cook to encourage orders, and possibly waste.

Few states did anything in the way of election reform till after the Presidential election of 1888. The late Matthew Stanley Quay conducted the successful campaign then, and immediately thereafter demands from all over the Union for the Australian ballot law sprang up. Most states have enacted something of the sort. It has been found insufficient, and in recent years corrupt practice acts have been appearing for the further discouragement of bribery. Some of these acts are entirely worthless and their improvement is demanded. Nineteen states have some sort of law requiring publicity for campaign expenditures. That of Massachusetts is pretty good, but needs some improvement. That of New York is good for nothing, but there is immediate prospect of a much better law. A national law of the same sort is pending, and while it will probably receive no attention at this session it will become a law in a year or two.

None of these measures are so drastic and efficient as the English corrupt practices act, but we are moving in that direction. We are optimistic and can with difficulty be persuaded that anything is rotten, or we are indulgent to mild cases of decay, and our politics are very much controlled by the politicians, but we are going to suppress political corruption. That is absolutely certain.

A DAUGHTERS' PRAYER.

The Daughters of the American Revolution are a worthy class of women, but they do some strange things at times. Their annual conventions have been so stormy as to have become events of much national interest, if for no other reason than because they arouse curiosity to see what the members will do next. The convention just held was obscured greatly by the intense light of public interest which beat upon the terrible calamity that befell California just after the convention began, but there came a few glimpses of the proceedings which showed that the "Daughters" were still doing business in the old familiar way.

Out of the obscurity, for instance, came the report that one "Daughter" in a public prayer during the convention uttered a petition for those "who have not the ancestry we have." Is it possible that a member of a body of presumably sensible women could have the poor taste to offer such a prayer at such a time and in such a place? For the good name and fair fame of the organization we would fain believe that the report is erroneous and the woman has been incorrectly quoted. Lack of judgment of such sort as this is harmful to the order and merits rebuke from those who are charged with the management of its affairs. The "Daughters" have already suffered in the house of their friends from the foibles of members, and this latest display of lack of discretion can only add to that injury.

THE REFUSAL OF FOREIGN AID.

In reply to the many inquiries received by the State Department from abroad and from foreign representatives in this country in regard to the scope and meaning of President Roosevelt's notice that contributions from abroad were not needed for the San Francisco sufferers, the State Department has sent a letter to Mr. Herman Ridder, editor of the New York Staats Zeitung, who was specially interested in the comments made by the newspapers in Germany on the subject, in which it is said that "the spontaneous contributions of the American people have been ample to meet all requirements and the proffers of aid from other parts of the world have been so in excess of all needs that to avoid any discrimination it was determined best to accept no outside help. The President wishes the German people to understand how deeply we appreciate their hearty sympathy and that we are quite as grateful to them for fraternal and humanitarian motives as we would be did it seem possible to accept their generous aid."

In round figures the amounts collected in the United States by popular subscription for the sufferers of various calamities in the past have been as follows: Chicago fire, 1871, $5,000,000; Charlestown earthquake 1886, $659,000; Jacksonville, yellow fever, 1888, $516,000; Johnston flood, 1889, $3,000,000; Galveston flood, 1900, $1,600,000; Paterson flood, 1902, $100,000. The offerings for the San Francisco disaster are reported this morning as exceeding $16,300,000, with much more to come. All this, however, is not subscriptions, for there have been many appropriations by official bodies, from Congress down.

John Paul Jones has been laid in his final resting place in the memorial chapel at the Naval Academy, with ceremonies in which France vied with the United States in doing honor to his memory. It is appropriate that the first admiral of the American navy should be interred at the Academy, where the future admirals of the navy receive their training for a life at sea.

It may be considered a generous act for the mayor of Woonsocket to agree to pay the fine, if imposed upon those who give an entertainment on Sunday evening for San Francisco sufferers, but it is not a proper position for the chief executive of any city to take. The mayor is under oath to support the laws, and should not be a party to their violation, even in name of charity.

General Greely, who has relieved General Funston in command at San Francisco, has asked for 2,500 federal troops to take the place of the state militia and citizens' patrol. This demand grows out of the lack of discretion of some of the militiamen and citizens, resulting in the inexcusable shooting of innocent citizens and Red Cross workers.

President Hadley of Yale will be the second Roosevelt professor of American history in the University of Berlin, treating of "Economic Problems in the United States." Professor Burgess of Columbia College is now filling the professorship, speaking during the present academic year on "American Constitutional History."

The lakes in New Hampshire are clear of ice, and spring has undoubtedly arrived. There are a few in this vicinity who are still a little doubtful on the subject.

The Providence people claim all the contributions of the state for California relief as "local." Providence always was modest.

Rhode Island's contribution to the San Francisco relief will be fully $100,000.

THE LOSS AT SAN FRANCISCO.

[Hartford Courant.]

Suppose that the reported loss of $200,000,000 in San Francisco is verified. The figures are appalling, and the public look on it as one of the calamities of modern times. Its effects are supposed to reach every corner of the earth. The like has not been since modern civilization came on deck. There is no language too strong to depict the magnitude of the loss to the world by the destruction of such an enormous and almost inconceivable amount of property.

Think of that, and then reflect that if Andrew Carnegie, one single citizen, should lose $200,000,000, the amount supposed Thursday morning to be lost by the entire San Francisco calamity, he would still have left in his possession one of the gigantic fortunes of all history. We take Carnegie, not because he is the richest man in the country, but because the definite fact has been made known that in selling out his steel interests he received $309,000,000 in five per cent bonds of the new company. This item has, of course, grown largely since then by accumulation of interest in excess of so-called charitable disbursements, and it has been supposed to be only a part of the man's possession. Rockefeller is considered far richer than Carnegie. Think of these things, and then speculate a bit whether President Roosevelt is a "socialist" and a "demagogue" in calling attention to the perils of growing fortunes, and the need of dividing rather than of increasing them from generation to generation.

But that is merely a question of ownership and the power that goes with it. The property exists, whether owned by one man or many, but in this California trouble the property has been destroyed. It means great losses sub-divided among many people. At the way people live nowadays, it is safe to say that two-thirds of the houses and buildings in this country, and so presumably in San Francisco, are mortgaged. The security for these mortgages has disappeared in large part and, if the insurance was inadequate or in weak companies, good when there is no fire, then the loss is without hope of recovery. The resources of the insurance companies will be tremendously taxed to meet their obligations, but these will be met by such companies as we have here in Hartford. They will be all the stronger, too, by what they pay out. The public are gradually learning that fire insurance must be of the sort that is good when the strain comes, not merely good when there are no fires and nothing to do but collect premiums.

Per contra, there will be a lot of rebuilding, must be; and this will mean demand for more material, abundance of opportunity for labor, and a spur to commercial activity. The world will eventually pay for the loss, but one of the first symptoms of the disaster will be quickened trade and business stimulated by the destruction. It is a historic fact that Chicago, Boston, Baltimore and other places that have experienced great disasters have come out of them better cities after reconstruction.

Mayor of Woonsocket Authorizes Sunday Night Benefit.

Commission to Codify the State Laws Completed—Church Will Uncontested.

A new turn was given yesterday to the discussion in Woonsocket relative to the preventing of last Sunday evening's performance at the Hub Vaudeville Theatre for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers, this step having been taken by some of the members of the Woonsocket Christian Alliance, which is composed of Protestant ministers of that city and vicinity. Mayor Archambault spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday visiting relatives in Holyoke. Yesterday he returned, and in the morning was visited by J. E. Ogden, lessee and manager of the Woonsocket Opera House. Mr. Ogden asked for executive permission to hold a moving-picture concert in the Opera House next Sunday evening, the proceeds to go to the San Francisco sufferers. His Honor readily granted the permission, and in the afternoon handed Mr. Ogden a letter granting permission for a performance next Sunday evening, and offering to pay the fine if Mr. Ogden should be prosecuted. Mayor Archambault also sent a similar letter to James W. Conklin, manager of the Hub Vaudeville Theatre, and at both playhouses next Sunday evening there will be benefit entertainments for the San Francisco sufferers, unless steps not now anticipated are taken to prevent it. President F. H. Spear of the Woonsocket Christian Alliance was asked last evening if he had any comment to make relative to the mayor's permission for the holding of Sunday evening benefit performances next Sunday. Mr. Spear replied that a special meeting of the Christian Alliance will be held today, at which the law enforcement situation will be discussed and the Sunday show question considered.

Speaker Arthur W. Dennis mailed notice to Samuel W. K. Allen of East Greenwich, representative in the General Assembly from that place, and John S. Murdock of Cranston, yesterday afternoon, of their appointment on the commission which is charged with the duty of codifying the state laws. Their commissions will be sent them today by the secretary of state, and as soon as they receive them and qualify, the commission will organize, elect a clerk and begin the work of arranging in orderly fashion the laws and the amendments which have been passed during the several years which have elapsed since the last codification. The resolution which passed the General Assembly during the later days of the session calls for the appointment of three men "learned in the law," and as a consequence all three appointees are members of the bar and practicing lawyers of experience. The first member of the commission is General Walter R. Stiness of Warwick, whom Governor Utter appointed a few days ago, and as leader of the senate for the last two years he is familiar with recent amendments, because he has been on the judiciary committee, which passed upon them. For many years past Mr. Allen of East Greenwich has been one of the prominent figures in the house and also of the house judiciary committee, and is familiar with the amendments of recent years, as well as many which date back a great many years. Mr. Murdock is also regarded as an excellent choice for the place.

The will case of Charles H. Church against Samuel C. Dimond, trustee, was set for trial in the superior court at Bristol yesterday, but the case was uncontested and the will of Benjamin Church is to be probated. It was a case which attracted no small attention in Bristol county, as the testator, Benjamin Church, was of a prominent Bristol family and was well known. Besides, there was the clause in the will which provided for the establishment of a home for aged of Bristol, and the bulk of Benjamin Church's fortune, an amount of $125,000 in all, was to be devoted to the building and maintenance of such an institution. Naturally there was a great deal of interest in the case at Bristol, especially when an appeal was taken from the decision of the probate court by Charles H. Church, a half brother of Benjamin Church. As soon as the appeal was taken Albert A. Baker, assistant city solicitor of Providence, was engaged as counsel by Charles H. Church, the appellant. Mr. Baker at the first meeting of the court to act on the will stated that the appeal was to be made by Charles H. Church and possibly others. No others had appeared in the case, so far as the public was aware, but preparations for the trial were begun months ago, Mr. Baker arranging with Judge O. L. Bosworth. It is claimed that it is due more to the complete preparation of the case on the side of the defense by General Wilson and Mr. O'Donnell than to anything else that the case went before a jury uncontested yesterday morning.

The first debate for the Mohonk prizes, given by Hon. George H. Utter to increase interest in the cause of international arbitration among students of Brown University, was held last evening, on the question, "Is Arbitration a Practicable Method for the Adjustment of International Controversies?" Harry Duane Bruce of Moretown, Vt., who spoke for the affirmative, carried off the first prize, and second was awarded to Oscar Maddaus of Brooklyn, who argued for the negative. Governor Utter was present and was introduced by Professor George G. Wilson as the donor of the prizes to be competed for and the presiding officer of the evening. In a brief address the governor told how the idea of giving the prizes had come to him from the suggestion of President Gilman of Johns Hopkins University, at one of the Lake Mohonk conferences on arbitration, that one of the best methods of promoting the cause of arbitration in this country is to interest college men in it. The prizes were offered in the hope that they might serve as a means to that end among Brown students.

Thomas Angell Millett, a well known lumber dealer of Providence and prominently identified with the politics of the old Third ward (now incorporated in the First) during the past generation, died at his home in that city, of heart trouble, yesterday. Mr. Millett was born in Scituate on May 9, 1826, his parents being Thomas and Olive Millett. They died when he was only six months old, and Mr. Millett was taken in charge by the town. The care shown him was that usually given to all orphans. He was sold at public auction to the highest bidder, who then owned young Millett's services until he had attained his majority. Mr. Millett was educated in the public schools of the town of Scituate and at Lapham Institute. When a young man he went to Providence, becoming a clerk for Dailey Brothers, lumber dealers. He worked there for some time and for other lumber dealers before forming a partnership with Henry E. Potter, known as Millett & Potter, dealers in lumber. This firm was dissolved in 1861, when Mr. Millett purchased the interest of his partner, who enlisted in the Union army and served in the Civil war. Later Mr. Millett became a member of the firm of Ezra D. Pegg & Co., and still later was connected with Talbot & Co. During the past years he was engaged in a commission lumber business. He had a varied political career. He was a representative of the old Third ward in the common council in 1865-1866, and from January, 1875, to 1888. Besides this, he served on the school committee from the same ward for 12 years. He also served as chairman on the Brook Street District Commission, which laid out new streets in that vicinity on the East Side. He was a warden of the Third ward for a number of years.

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS.

To Georgette Brown, Frederick S. G. D'Hauteville, Alice G. Vanderbilt and the Heirs of William (Seal) C. Anthony, deceased, and to all others interested in the land hereinafter mentioned.
GREETING:—

WHEREAS The Board of Aldermen of the City of Newport on the Sixth day of February, A. D. 1906, did appoint Patrick J. Boyle, Joseph B. Pike and James McLeish to survey, bound and mark out the widening of Coggeshall Avenue from the south side of Morton Park to the north side of Ruggles Avenue to a uniform width of about 33 feet, which had been by said Board previously adjudged necessary, who have duly made a report and return in the premises, that they have surveyed, bounded and marked out said widening in manner following, that is to say, the widening of said Coggeshall Avenue from Morton Park to Victoria Avenue in conformity to the direction of the Board of Aldermen, running through lands of Georgette Brown, of Frederick S. G. D'Hauteville, Alice G. Vanderbilt and of the heirs of William C. Anthony, deceased, as shown by said Return and the map thereto attached.

You are therefore hereby notified to appear, if you shall see fit, before said Board, on Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of April, 1906, at 8 o'clock P. M., at the Aldermanic Chamber in the City Hall, and be heard for or against the reception of the said Return and Report.

Signed, and sealed by order and in behalf of said Board of Aldermen, by David Stevens, Clerk of said Board, on this Third day of April, A. D. 1906.
DAVID STEVENS, Clerk.

CHANNING CONFERENCE.

Business Meeting Opens the Annual and Eightieth Session.

Papers on "English Unitarianism" and The Opportunity of American Unitarianism.

The annual and eightieth session of the Channing Conference opened this morning at the Channing Memorial Church with a business meeting. President Job C. Tripp of Fairhaven, Mass., presided and in opening spoke of the six or seven Unitarian conferences held here, dwelling particularly on the centennial Channing Conference, at which were present Henry Bellows, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Elizabeth Channing, Julia Ward Howe and other distinguished people. President Tripp referred to Mr. Bellows's address at that time, in which he spoke of the progress of Unitarianism in the past 100 years. If Mr. Bellows were living today he would see much greater progress.

The minutes of the last conference were read by the secretary, Rev. George William Kent of Providence.

The annual report of the treasurer, in the absence of Treasurer Augustus H. Pierce of Providence, was read by the secretary. It was moved that a continuing committee of three be appointed by the chair to report at the afternoon meeting.

It was moved that an appropriation of $50 be made for the Nantucket summer meetings if necessary.

It was further moved that a committee be appointed to consider an appropriation from the treasury to the American Unitarian Association for the San Francisco sufferers and to the students in the East who now, through the ruin of their parents, are without money for their education.

It was also moved that a welcome be extended to Rev. Frank L. Phalen of Fairhaven, Mass., Rev. John H. W. Day of Fall River, Rev. Antone G. Singer of the Bell Street Chapel, Providence, and Rev. William Safford Jones of Newport, who have recently come into the conference. It was voted that Rev. Martin K. Schermerhorn, formerly pastor of the Channing Church, who is to make Newport his home, be elected a member of the Conference.

The first address of the morning was given by Rev. Frank L. Phalen of Fairhaven, Mass., who spoke on "Impressions of English Unitarianism."

REV. GEORGE W. KENT, Providence, Secretary of the Channing Conference.

Americans have received the germs of Unitarianism from England, where the speaker has spent much time among Unitarians. There is a close connection between English and American Unitarianism, many Unitarian clergymen of this country being English or of English blood, and many American clergymen now residing in London. At the May meetings in London Mr. Haven was present, and in the southern part of England spoke on American Unitarianism, the address being received with great enthusiasm.

There are many Unitarian churches in England in by-lanes and alleys, as it was formerly a crime to be a Unitarian. In Great Britain and Ireland there are 364 Unitarian churches, 285 being in England, in which there are 70,000 people. There are seven Unitarian churches in Scotland with 1,000 members and in Ireland there are 39 churches. Unitarianism is not drawing as it should in Great Britain, and it is felt that there is need of closer organization. In May a Unitarian van is to be sent out from Manchester to propagate Unitarianism. There is a need for action among Unitarians if Unitarian churches are not to die out. The laity of England is a credit, many prominent Unitarians being in Parliament and members of the nobility. The English women need a National Women's Alliance like the American one.

Mr. Phalen brought away favorable impressions of the English Unitarian worship, which is more reverential and hearty than American Unitarianism. The greatness of the evil in the world and the great power of God are the most impressive things in life, according to Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, and these are the problems which Unitarianism must deal with. In order to be great, Unitarianism must greatly serve.

The last address of the morning was by Rev. John H. Applebee of Attleboro, Mass., on "The Opportunity of American Unitarianism." In order to avail, Unitarianism must be useful. From the point of view of optimism Mr. Applebee believes that the Unitarians have a great work to do, for which America and the world are waiting. Even the frightful catastrophe of San Francisco can be explained by Unitarianism. The opportunity of American Unitarianism in the twentieth century is the satisfaction of the hunger of the soul for religion. American Unitarianism answers to the God-like in living souls.

It is possible for Unitarians to clasp hands in much activity with other sects. Moral righteousness is now prominent everywhere, and the churches should take advantage of the awakened moral conscience as regards business and social evils. Unitarianism should work along industrial lines and should make the workers with their hands know by experience the brotherhood of man. Unitarianism has a unique opportunity in the grasping of the newly awakened thought which is in accordance with American Unitarianism. In conclusion Mr. Applebee spoke of the necessity of Unitarians accepting all the discoveries of science which cannot be reconciled with dogmatic religion and as bringing enlightenment and consolation to men.

The two papers were discussed by Rev. William B. Geoghegan of New Bedford, who dwelt particularly on the necessity of solidarity in the Unitarian Church, and of brotherhood with all men; Rev. George W. Kent of Providence, who spoke of the religious progress of England; Job C. Tripp and Rev. Frank L. Phalen, who spoke on the necessity of contributing generously for Unitarian work.

The morning session was brought to a close by an offering for the San Francisco sufferers and a devotional service conducted by Rev. John H. W. Day of Fall River. "Acquaint Thee O Spirit" was sung, the Unitarian selection from the Psalms was read, "How Sweetly flowed the Gospel's Sound" was sung; John XXI: 1-24 was read by Mr. Blake, who also offered prayer, and the session closed with the singing of "Glorious things of thee are Spoken," and the benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Blake.

At 1 o'clock a collation was served and at 2:15 the afternoon session began.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Rev. C. D. Burrows has returned from a short visit to Providence.

Mr. Charles Seger and family of Philadelphia, who have been guests of Mr. H. S. Stubbs, returned to their home today.

Mr. W. F. Caswell left today for Shawmut, Mass., being called there by the serious condition of Mrs. Caswell, who is there for her health.

Mrs. Ellen Cottrell and Miss Cottrell returned today from a three months' trip, which included Mexico and the western part of the United States. The spent considerable time in San Francisco, but were fortunate in leaving on the Monday before the earthquake and subsequent fire.

Mr. W. B. Franklin of Newport was in town today, making arrangements for the construction of a bungalow on his property at Short Point, near Beavertail, to be occupied the coming season.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mrs. Stephen A. Gardner of New London is guest of Mrs. B. B. H. Sherman on Broadway.

—Judge Franklin, who has been housed for a few days by an attack of tonsilitis, is able to be out again.

—A supper was given to 15 members of the Noonday Club by a brother member last evening at the United States Hotel.

—An interesting picture of San Francisco in 1849 is on exhibition in the Daily News window. It is the property of Mr. Joseph G. Stevens.

—Messrs. J. H. Barnes, Jr., & Co. offer the free use, including cartage to and from the hall, of a Steinway grand piano for the benefit concert next week.

—Among United States Hotel arrivals are C. F. Scheninger of Providence, H. S. Simmons of Broad Cove, Me., W. Wendell of New York and W. A. Sisson of New Bedford.

—The Men's Club of Emmanuel Church gave a social in the clubrooms last night. The H. K. Howard orchestra furnished music and there was a good attendance of young folks.

—The Burlington Stock Company opened a two days' engagement at the Opera House yesterday afternoon. "Camille" was the play, and it was well presented by what appears to be a capable company.

—Edward M. Gladding and wife have sold to Nellie A., wife of Herbert E. Nason, the estate bounded south, 36 feet, on Channing street; east, 150 feet, on land of Peter S. Brooks; north, 36 feet, on the estate of William H. Stanhope, and west, 150 feet, on lands of Albert H. Allding and M. J. Parkhurst.

—Steamer Pilgrim is expected here Friday from New York, after being hauled out on the dry dock for painting. Her place on the line has been taken by the Puritan.

—Mr. Joseph T. Bulley of Philadelphia is to leave for a short visit to Europe Saturday. He will return in time to occupy his cottage at Jamestown early in June.

—Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Gilman entertained at their home on Madison court in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Stratton, the occasion being her birthday. Vocal and instrumental music and recitations were given by several of the guests, there were games and dancing, an orchestra furnishing music, and during the evening a buffet collation was served.

—Mr. F. H. Mason, superintendent of the Johnston-Graham Mining Company, is in the city to confer with the Newport directors. He will start this evening for California, to take charge of the mine. Mr. Charles D. Stark, Jr., of this city has been superintending repairs to the mill and cleaning out the lower tunnel since last October. It is expected that the new stamps will be in operation early in the summer.

SWELLING THE FUND.

Various Organizations and Many Individuals Contribute.

Amount Now Exceeds $8,000—Balance to be Sent to Red Cross Society.

A meeting of the local relief committee was held yesterday in the City Hall, at which it was voted to send all present and future moneys collected in Newport or received by the local committee, except the first $1,000, which was sent direct to Mayor Schmitz, as was the City Council's appropriation, be forwarded to the National Red Cross Society, for distribution with its funds.

The chairman was authorized to arrange for a benefit concert to be given at the Opera House, Wednesday evening, May 2, and Rev. C. A. Stenhouse, Rev. E. H. Porter, D. D., and Mr. T. T. Pitman were appointed by the mayor a committee to arrange for the concert.

The Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society reported that it had voted to contribute $100 to the fund and that a subscription paper had been placed in its rooms, to be closed next Sunday, to receive individual contributions. Michael J. Sullivan and James W. Sullivan, members of the society, have each contributed $5 to the fund.

Mayor Cottrell presided at the meeting, and in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Max Levy, secretary, Mr. Thomas H. Congdon acted in that capacity.

More than $1,000 has been added to the contributions which Newport has given through various channels towards the relief of the San Francisco sufferers, and the total aggregate is over $8,000, surely a generous contribution for the city. The local committee has received the following additional contributions since the last report in the News, and they are coming in constantly:

Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society.	$100.00
James W. Sullivan,	5.00
Michael J. Sullivan,	5.00
Methodist Church, Middletown, C. C.,	30.00
William C. Covell,	5.00

F. H. Paine,	20.00
Mrs. Samuel Powel,	25.00
Reported since Tuesday.	776.50
Reported Tuesday,	5,697.29
Total to date.	$8,474.00

Yesterday the local contributions aggregated $7,181.16, and to this amount are to be added the $776.50 reported above, the two donations of $100 each from the local Odd Fellows' lodges, the $100 given by the Ladies' Aid Society of Channing Church through the American Unitarian Association, $67 from By-the-Sea Aerie of Eagles, and the $25 given by the Women's Association of the United Congregational Church, which will be added to that church's contribution and which is not yet reported in full. This brings the aggregate so far as known to $8,350.

The Women's Association of the United Congregational Church at its meeting yesterday afternoon voted to contribute $25 to the relief fund, the money to be added to the collection taken at the church last Sunday.

Rhode Island Lodge and Excelsior Lodge of Odd Fellows have each contributed $100, the money to be sent to the Grand Lodge, to be added to the Supreme Lodge's contribution.

The Bar Tenders' Union will give a social tomorrow night and will give one half the receipts toward the San Francisco relief fund.

The Middletown Methodist Episcopal Church raised $30 in the collection Sunday for the San Francisco sufferers, and a check for that sum was yesterday sent to Rev. Mr. Stenhouse, who turned it over to Mayor Cottrell.

The Ladies' Sewing Society of the Channing Memorial Church has contributed $100, through the American Unitarian Association, for the San Francisco refugees.

Mayor Cottrell has received a number of subscription boxes, which he will place about the city, to receive small contributions for the relief fund. One will be placed at the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association, one at the head house on the Government wharf, and one probably at Fort Adams.

Gaspee Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, has accepted the invitation of the National Red Cross Society to take charge of the work in Providence of gathering and forwarding supplies of clothing, etc., for the San Francisco sufferers. William Ellery Chapter has undertaken a similar work in Newport, having arranged to sort, pack and ship all articles of light clothing, blankets, sheets, etc., which may be sent to the Trinity guild hall, High street, between the hours of 10 and 4 o'clock Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, where a committee of ladies will be present to receive the same. Clothing should be in good condition, as there is no opportunity for making repairs, and it is desired to forward the contributions at as early a date as possible.

WALKER SUSPECTED OF OTHER ROBBERIES.

Benjamin Walker, the colored man who came to Newport Sunday locked in a theatrical baggage car, the trunks in which he has been adjudged guilty of rifling, was this morning taken to Cranston to serve his sentence of six months and work out his $20 fines and costs. In Providence, before being taken to the jail, he will probably be recorded under the Bertillon system, and the police are inclined to believe that they have made a capture of a bad man. It was mere luck that he was captured, for coming from Boston as he did he had the opportunity of taking everything of value which he could carry and then slipping down to the New York boat at night and making his escape from the city without the police even knowing that he was in town.

Yesterday Detective Kelley of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad was in town, with a Boston pawnbroker, the latter identifying Walker as the man who pawned stolen articles at his place. Two theatrical cars were looted in Boston recently, the police of that city know, and perhaps others not yet heard of have received the same treatment. Walker wore a suit of clothes with the name of Joseph Wheelock, Jr., on satchel marked on them. While he may have been Wheelock's valet, as he claims, the police suspect that this may not be the case and are working to establish a chain of robberies against the man which will keep him serving time for some while to come. He will have about a year to spend in confinement in this state, and then Massachusetts will probably get him, if that state establishes a claim, as it is now expected to do, while before that the police will not be surprised if many other claims are prepared.

NON-UNION MEN EMPLOYED.

Firemen, Pumpmen and Engineers Deserted Their Posts.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Hostilities between the mine owners and strikers promise to begin in earnest within the next few days, following the employment yesterday of non-union men in nine of the Illinois shafts. The first non-union crews were put at work in 11 mines in the Saline county district. Most of these mines are controlled by the O'Gara Coal Company, whose employes deserted their posts Monday. The company promptly hired non-union engineers, firemen and pumpmen to take the places of the strikers.

Further desertions of union men now caring for the shafts are expected today. A number of men who left the O'Gara shafts left these properties open to ruin by the floods. As an emergency measure to save the property from injury, Thomas J. O'Gara, president of the O'Gara Coal Company, ordered clerks and office boys from the offices to take charge of the pumps and fires temporarily. Later regular firemen and engineers were found and placed at work.

STOVES FOR THE SUFFERERS.

The following appeared in the Boston Globe last night:

Taunton, April 23.—Taunton has the credit of being the first city in New England to contribute goods directly for the relief of the sufferers at San Francisco.

Today there left from Boston a carload of 100 Glenwood ranges, consigned to San Francisco. These ranges were given by the Weir Stove Company, of Taunton, when its would be one of the things as it realized that cooking utens the firm heard of the calamity, needed immediately.

The ranges will be rushed forward as quickly as possible and should get there within a week.

SHIPPING BILL ALIVE.

Gallinger Has Not Yet Given Up Hope of Its Passage.

Senators Anxious About Re-Election —Sherman an Excellent Presiding Officer.

[Washington correspondence of the News]

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Because the bill providing for the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine, which passed the Senate some months ago, has not been reported from the House committee, Senator Gallinger is not at all discouraged. The Senator believes that there is a fair possibility of the measure being passed during the short session of Congress next winter, even if no action is taken at the present session. Gallinger fought the bill through the Senate without seeking the aid of the powerful steering committee. He felt sure of his position and kept the matter before the Senate till he secured a vote, and only five members of his own party voted against it. The passage of the shipping bill was a victory for the persistency of the New Hampshire Senator.

Senator Gallinger expects that some changes will be made by the House before the bill is passed. Among these will be the restoration of the tonnage tax provision, which is expected to repay a large part of the money which would be expended on new ships. This provision was eliminated by the Senate because it seemed to conflict with constitutional requirement that the House should originate all bills raising revenues. If this is done and a few unimportant changes are made by the House, Gallinger will move to concur in the House amendments. The belief that the House will pass the bill in the short session is based on the idea that the members will feel differently after the election; also that the President will recommend in his next annual message the passage of the measure. The President has always been in favor of the restoration of the merchant marine, and it is understood that he will make a strong recommendation in his next message.

A number of Senators are getting anxious concerning the situation in their states. Some Democrats as well as some Republicans, are having a great deal of opposition at home, and they are wondering what the "other fellows" are doing. More than half of the Senators who go before the people this year will have no opposition, and they are taking matters quite easy. Some of those who have the greatest opposition have spent considerable time at home, while others say that they will not make a canvass of their states to secure re-election. They hold to the view that their records ought to be enough to determine their fitness for the Senate.

Senator Aldrich was explaining to Representative Hepburn that the language of the House railroad rate bill was faulty.

"Why, we couldn't write any bill that would satisfy the Senate," exclaimed Hepburn rather impatiently. "No matter what we might send over you would re-write it and put your name on it."

A man who heard this conversation remarked, "The only thing for the House to do is to copyright its measure when it passes them, and then it might get a bill through that was not labeled all over with Senate tags."

Representative Reeder of Kansas was advocating some bill that was being considered under suspension of the rules. Some objection was made to the salary it carried. "Well, the salary can be stricken out," said Reeder.

"Don't you know," asked Representative Stafford of Wisconsin, "that you cannot amend a bill under suspension?"

"Certainly," replied Reeder.

"Then what does the gentleman mean by putting up this bluff?" asked Stafford amid the laughter of the House.

Some time ago there was published in Washington under large headlines an interview with Andrew Carnegie regarding wealth and kindred subjects. "I observe," remarked Representative Littlefield in his dry Yankee manner, "that Carnegie has discovered that the wealthy people have more money to spend than the poor people; also that wealthy people have comforts that the poor do not have." He went on with more comments to the same effect, which showed that the man from the Pine Tree State was not very much affected by the views of the millionaire ironmaster.

Representative Kennedy of Nebraska considers James S. Sherman of New York the best presiding officer he ever saw. "I never knew a man," he said, "who is so quick, so fair and so firm and at the same time so good natured, as Sherman. He knows parliamentary law from beginning to end, and he is ready to rule as soon as a point is made. At the same time he is ready to listen courteously to any man who wants to present his views. Sherman keeps better order and has business moving along better than any man in the chair."

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. Gould H. Redmond is at the Muenchinger-King cottage.

—Mr. Henry Bryer is confined to his home on Mt. Vernon street by illness.

—The custom house has been in receipt of many goods in bond this spring.

—Mr. Harry Alger is arranging for a European trip during the summer vacation.

—The Algonkin Club is to give a whist and dance in the club rooms Monday night.

—Mrs. William Astor will sail from Europe for New York August 24, and upon her arrival in New York will come direct to Newport.

—Among the passengers booked to sail on steamer Oceanic for Liverpool today are Colonel G. H. Pearling and Miss Dorothy Payne Whitney.

—The brick work on the new Father Mathew building has advanced enough to give a good idea how the structure is to look and the impression is decidedly pleasing. The building looks good enough to be further up town, in fact, it looks rather out of place in such a quiet neighborhood.

—Mrs. Woodbury Kane's servants are here, preparing her cottage for early occupancy.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Innes Kane and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman sailed for Europe yesterday.

—The streets leading from Spring street to Bellevue avenue are being swept. They needed it.

—Ex-Mayor Garrettson and family will return here for the season during the first week in May.

—Rev. Dorial Heeney is to deliver the address at the memorial service of Ivy-the-Sea Aerie of Eagles.

—Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hague are expected here in a few days, to inspect their cottage near Telegraph Hill.

—A subscription social is being arranged by a few young women calling themselves the U. A. I. Club, to be given May 7.

—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hazelton, who have been visiting their sister, Mrs. Henry Bryer, have returned to their home in Providence.

—Mr. Daniel Beard has received a telegram from San Francisco, saying that Mr. Christopher Ellery and his brothers are safe at Youngsville, Cal.

—Miss Patterson, superintendent of the Newport Hospital, is suffering from a broken rib, as the result of slipping and falling against a newel post at that institution.

—The officers-elect of Newport Lodge of Elks will be formally installed tomorrow night, when the lodge will have a big social session, open only to members of the order.

—Yesterday was the time for the monthly meeting of the Park Commission. In view of the fact that Admiral Chadwick was the only member who attended, it seems needless to say that no business was transacted.

—The Republican state central committee decided yesterday at a special meeting to conduct a hearing May 2 on the controversy between the First ward delegation and the Republican city committee of this city.

—Senator Henry Clay Osborn of Tiverton and Miss Lydia Greene Cranston, also of that town, the daughter of John Cranston, long a boat builder, now deceased, were married in New York Saturday. Rev. Dr. Thomas Reed Bridges performed the ceremony.

—Rev. James Austin Richards, pastor of the United Congregational Church, will be the orator on Memorial day, and Rev. Ernest W. Burch, pastor of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal church, who will preach the memorial sermon in the Grand Army posts on the evening of Memorial Sunday, will, in accordance with custom, be the chaplain of the day.

—Dr. Beck's new launch Ganoga is hauled out at the Newport shipyard for alterations and finishing before the regular season comes on. The boat was never really finished, but will be now. Fishing sloops Dauntless and Olive E. and lighter Mustof are hauled out at the shipyard. The Olive E is to have a bulkhead built for safety. Mr. H. L. Marsh's yawl Wraith is fitting out at the yard.

—Tugs Resolute, Triton and Minnie, which have been awaiting good weather, are still here, the good weather from a seaman's point of view not yet appearing. The northwest storm signal was flying yesterday afternoon, and the wind seemed to justify the signal. The wind is still from the northwest and is anything but warm; in fact, it feels like freezing, though the thermometer says 47 and 46.

—Mr. A. G. Vanderbilt has received an Indian tricycle, a new machine for those parts. It in many ways resembles the small machines first used as automobiles about here, having the driver's seat in the rear and a seat for a woman in front. The difference is that this has but three wheels, while the early ones had four. Besides, this new machine is guaranteed to go, which is somewhat different from the old ones.

—Several copies of the Japan Advertiser, the only American daily in Japan, published at Yokohama, have been received at the News office from Chief Machinist's Mate Charles E. Ehrhardt, U. S. N., who is now on duty in eastern waters. Mr. Ehrhardt is a native of this city, a former member of the Naval Reserves, who remained in the navy after the late war and has worked up to this rating. Up to a short time ago he was at the Training Station here.

How Japs Keep Strong.

Daily News Readers Can Learn Something of Value from This.

Such a thing as a weakling is hardly known in Japan. The wonderful endurance of the Japanese soldiers and sailors in the recent war has been the marvel of all nations. Both men and women are well, happy and strong.

The reason for this, so careful investigators tell us, is that the Japanese from childhood up know how to keep well through use of the digestive system. If they have trouble with indigestion, heartburn, wind on the stomach, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, headaches, rheumatic pains, backaches, or any of the other troubles caused by a weak stomach, they treat themselves with some of the principal remedies that compose Mi-o-na, a stomach remedy that has already a large sale in Newport at Wright & Hay's.

So uniformly successful has the remedy been in curing all stomach troubles where it is used in accordance with the simple directions given with each box, that Wright & Hay give a signed guarantee with every 50 cent package to refund the money if Mi-o-na fails to benefit.

FRESH AIR IN THE HOUSE.

No Dwelling Should Have Temperature Over 65 Degrees Unless There are Old Persons in It.

[Emma C. Conro, principal St. Catherine Hall, New York.]

I know a little girl who almost dies of bronchitis, and yet I believe that her frequently recurring attacks could be entirely eliminated, that the predisposition to the malady could be outgrown, and the child could be made well, strong and healthy, simply by keeping the house cooler.

The temperature is kept at over 80 degrees in this child's home, and heavy draperies, portieres and velvet carpets cover every inch of space possible. The slight dampness or coldness in the weather is sufficient to keep the child in the house all day, and as for rain or snow, such a thing as the child going out in it could not be thought of. And yet she has these awful attacks of bronchitis. Kept like a little hot-house plant, the slightest breath of exposure is enough to bring back the malady. If a child could be accustomed, under wise care, to a gradually cooling temperature in the house until she was perfectly comfortable with the house at 65 degrees; if she could be carefully and gradually accustomed to going out, well protected, in all weather except the very worst, I believe her bronchitis could be driven away. She has now got a pre-inclination to bronchitis fixed upon her, which it may be difficult to eradicate, but no child brought up in a cool house, and accustomed to running out in all weathers, is ever as delicate as this child.

No house should have a temperature over 65 degrees, or at most 70 degrees, unless there are old or sick persons in it. I love to see my pupils get to the point where they like a temperature of 65 degrees. If they really like 65 degrees, I feel uncomfortable if it gets much warmer. I am sure they are healthy. We see friends and acquaintances who live in a manner contrary to all the rules of hygiene. Their houses are overheated, they do not admit fresh air, they do not exercise in the open air. Yet they seem to be well. But if we watch such persons we will see that they lack vitality and energy. They accomplish little, and what they do is an effort. They are often ill. We have long been accustomed to regard illness as sufficient excuse for the non-performance of any duty. But if the illness is preventable it is as culpable as any other fault. Illness destroys our own usefulness and the comfort of our friends. It is a moral duty to understand the laws which govern not only health, but energy, vitality and activity.

The first winter one passes in Germany, with its porcelain stove, said Miss Conro, "the nearly freezes to death." The second winter he finds he never was so comfortable before, and declares that he can never stand the overheated houses of America again.

"We often hear what a magnificent ventilator the fireplace is," said she. "The fireplace sucks from ten to twenty thousand cubic feet of air out a room in an hour. Where is the air to come from if fresh is not let in? The fireplace establishes such a suction that if fresh air is not let in it will draw in air from the bedrooms, the kitchen, the cellar, anywhere. It ventilates if plenty of fresh air is supplied, and not otherwise. The advantages of the fireplace are cheerfulness and ventilation; the disadvantages, the waste of heat and lack of uniformity in heating.

EVERYBODY LIKES GOOD PIE

There is no longer any excuse for poor pies on your table, as you should follow the lead of thousands and use D-Zerta Quick Pudding as a filling for pies. Try this recipe:

D-Zerta Chocolate Cream Pie.

Prepare a package of D-Zerta Chocolate Pudding according to directions on package, adding one-half cup of sugar. Put in crust which has been baked. Cover with meringue made with the whites of two eggs. This makes two large pies or three small ones.

All the five flavors—Lemon-Tapioca, Vanilla, Orange-Macaroon, Chocolate and Strawberry, can be used in the same way, and bananas, cocoanut, etc., added as desired. D-Zerta Quick Pudding is also used as a cake filling and for a pudding dessert. Simply add a quart of milk to contents of one package, bring to a boil, cool and serve with cream and sugar. Order from your grocer. 10 cents per package.

HOW'S YOUR STOMACH?

Wm. H. Cotton Has a Remedy Which He Guarantees to Cure the Worst Cases of Stomach Troubles.

I wish to tell the readers of this paper about a remedy for Dyspepsia, which is a marvel in medicine. It cures the worst cases, from the acute attack of indigestion to chronic dyspepsia. This remedy is known as Alberts' Little Dinner Pill, being the prescription of Dr. Hutchinson, the noted specialist of London and Brighton, England, who previous to his decease had built up a remarkable practice as a specialist in diseases of the stomach. Dr. Hutchinson claimed that his success was due to the use of this pill, and since its introduction on the American continent it has performed wonderful cures.

Mr. J. B. Lombard, Casco, Me., writes: "I am now past 81 years of age and have had stomach trouble practically all my life. I sent and got a sample package of Albert's Little Dinner Pill, thinking that it would turn out to be one more disappointment, but from the first dose I found relief, and can say that I am now better than ever before in my life. It is a wonderful cure for Dyspepsia and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers from Stomach trouble."

Alberts' Little Dinner Pill contains no Physic, no Acid, Alkali, Ginger, Pepsin, Pancreatin, Soda, Morphine or any preparation of Opium, or in fact any of the ingredients usually found in so-called Dyspepsia cures. It cures by removing the cause and makes the worst cases well, being guaranteed to benefit or the purchase price returned. Sold at drug stores or by mail, 25 cents per package. Samples free. Address Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass. Sold and guaranteed by WM. H. COTTON, 225 Thames St.

RESTORATION WORK WELL UNDER WAY.

With a courage and self-reliance of which we cannot as Americans be sufficiently proud, the people of San Francisco have already started in orderly and resolute fashion to rebuild the city. Immediate aid in this enterprise should be given by the federal government. One of the crying needs of the situation is employment for the scores of thousands of men who have lost everything. If the appropriation of $300,000 for the Mare Island navy yard be at once passed, over 2,000 men will immediately be put to work, for this appropriation will be expended only in employing labor. The appropriation is urgently needed as a means of contributing toward the re-establishment of affairs in San Francisco; it will also be of material use to the navy.

"Furthermore, I recommend that the Congress act on the recommendations of the War Department and appropriate the money necessary to establish a building as a general supply and storage depot for the supply departments of the army and the transport service, on a part of the military reservation of Fort Mason. This project is set forth in Senate bill 4,475 of the present session.

"I have requested the Treasury and Postoffice departments to prepare their estimates for replacing or repairing the other government buildings in San Francisco. These estimates will be ready in a short while and will then be laid before you."

COMMISSIONED BY PRESIDENT.

Will take Charge United States Buildings and Properties.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 25.—Secretary Metcalf of the Department of Commerce and Labor passed through here last night on his way to San Francisco to take charge of United States properties and buildings as special commissioner from the President, and representing the President in this matter. He was accompanied by Congressman McKinley, who announced that he would at once proceed to Santa Rosa, where he will devote himself to the alleviation of suffering, both in his private and official capacity.

CHINESE NOT NEGLECTED.

Citizens and Military Authorities Have Shown No Discrimination.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The report that suffering Chinese are being neglected at San Francisco was denied in a telegram received at the War Department today from General Greely, dated yesterday. The despatch says:

"I am greatly surprised to learn from General Funston that the sufferings of destitute Chinese are reported to be in danger of neglect. Nothing could be more contrary to the truth. So far the citizens' committee and military authorities have known no distinction of race, the sole question being one of destitution and practical relief. It would be particularly unfortunate if the idea is circulated that the National Red Cross Association is the only one which treats without discrimination the destitute and suffering in this city."

FELT NO FEAR AT ANY TIME.

Mme. Emma Eames Tells of Her Experience During Earthquake.

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 25.—The following statement of her experience during and after the earthquake was yesterday written for the Associated Press by Mme. Emma Eames of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who is now resting at the home of Dr. Tevis at Alma, in the hills of Santa Clara county. The story is as follows:

"I was in bed and at the first quiver of the earthquake awoke; to perfect consciousness. The futility of an attempt to save one's self came over me, and I lay quite still, only holding onto the bed to be kept from being thrown out. I was absolutely without fear at any time. As soon as the movements began to quiet themselves I thought of moving, but each time they redoubled in intensity. As last at the end of the first big shock I heard the voice of our host, asking if I were afraid. Of course I got up and dressed as quickly as I could, and rushed down to the Hotel St. Francis, to see what was happening to Mme. Sembrich. Dr. Tevis and I got in an automobile, with which an acquaintance was fortunately passing. On getting there we rushed up several flights on foot, as no elevators were going, only to find Mme. Sembrich was gone. We at last found her, and begged her to come up with us, as the doctor's house was on the top of Nob Hill.

"We passed the day there, watching the flames approaching and feeling shocks of earthquakes at intervals. Dr. Tevis all the time trying to get some sort of conveyance to get us out of this town, not from fear of earthquake but of the approaching fire. He at last found a landau, whose driver consented to wait in front of the door until we must leave. The town was burning between us and the ferries, and there was difficulty in getting there. At about 8 o'clock the doctor said we had better get out to the north beach as we might be surrounded on the north beach, as we might be ultimately surrounded by flames Thursday, and was the last to remain standing in that vicinity. It was burned to the ground, with all in it, including our clothes, we being able to carry with us in our flight only our valuables and one change of clothing. We took blankets and lay out all night on the ground, the dew falling so heavily that we were soaked.

"About 9 o'clock on Thursday morning Dr. Tevis said the fires had burned themselves out between us and the ferry, and we could get over to Oakland and must go at once. The carriage took our few belongings and two of our party least fit for violent exercise, while the rest of us walked. After waiting at the Oakland ferry three quarters of an hour for the carriage which we had outwalked we got safely over to Oakland. There, leaving our two maids in carriages, we took a train to a suburb of Oakland, where lives a relative of Dr. Tevis. There we found the house closed and lay about on the ground, waiting for them to find means of conveying us to Dr. Tevis's country place, 75 miles from Oakland. I had lost my voice completely, and felt that I could not return to confusion and endure a possible three days' sojourn in a railway train. At about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon we managed to secure an automobile, and Dr. Tevis, Mr. Telgo, my maid and myself came up here, where we have been camping out. We found the caretakers in a state of terror on our arrival, and the house demolished by the earthquake. We had taken a ride in an automobile of four hours and were glad to lie on a comfortable mattress in one of the cottages of his employes. At no time have we felt any fear and the whole thing seems perfectly natural. We have been trying very hard to get accommodations for our journey to New York, and I hope to leave Thursday morning by the Overland limited, arriving in New York Monday morning. We are with Dr. Tevis at Alma, Santa Clara county, until we can get away."

JUNIOR WEEK CELEBRATION.

Commences at Brown University by Game with Dartmouth.

PROVIDENCE, April 25.—The Junior week celebration at Brown University commenced today with the Dartmouth-Brown base ball game at Andrews field, while tonight the musical clubs of the university will give a concert at Sayles hall, followed by an informal dance. Tomorrow some sort of an out-of-doors entertainment will be given on the college campus, and in the evening the Seek and Buskin Club will present a play at a local theatre. Fraternity teas Friday afternoon and the junior "Prom" dance in Sayles hall that evening will close the celebration.

A WELL KNOWN COMPOSER.

Death of Professor John Knowles Paine of Harvard University.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 25.—Professor John Knowles Paine, director of the musical department of Harvard University since 1875, and a well known composer and authority on music, died suddenly today at his home in this city from pneumonia. He was born at Portland, Me., in 1839.

Professor Paine had not been in good health for a year or more, but he was not confined to his home, and was out as late as last Sunday. On that day he contracted a cold, and this developed quickly into pneumonia. He was one of the most prominent members of the Harvard faculty, and his name as a musician was known throughout the world.

Professor Paine was the son of Jacob S., and Rebecca Beebe (Downes) Paine. He studied music under Herman Kotzschmar, and made his first appearance as an organist in 1857. In the next few years he studied in Germany under well known teachers. In 1862 he was appointed instructor of music at Harvard. As a composer Professor Paine was best known to the outside world. One of his first works was the composition of the music to "Oedipus Tyrannus of Sophocles," as performed in Greek in Cambridge in 1881. He composed many symphonies. Among his more popular pieces were "The Centennial Hymn" to Whittier's words sung at the opening of the Philadelphia exposition in 1876, and the Columbus march and hymn, composed for the world's Columbian exposition in 1892. Two years ago Professor Paine retired from active direction of Harvard's musical department.

FEAR DAMAGE FROM EARTHQUAKE.

Lock Canals Would be Put Out of Business and Dams Destroyed.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Regarding the expressed fear that earthquakes are likely to damage the proposed Panama canal, Isham Randolph, chief engineer of the Chicago Drainage Canal and a member of the United States board of engineers for the Panama canal, said yesterday: "The destruction of San Francisco by an earthquake has been seized upon by alarmists as an argument against a lock canal across the Isthmus of Panama. The deduction drawn is that such an earthquake would put the lock canal out of business by wrecking the locks and destroying the dams. Should such a convulsion of nature visit the canal route, no doubt serious damage would result to either type of canal that might be adopted, but of the two types the sea level would be the worst sufferer."

HAPPY WOMEN.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
To find relief and cure?
No reason why any reader
Should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Almira A. Jackson, of East Front St., Traverse City, Mich., says. "For twenty years I was doctoring for kidney and liver trouble, but without benefit. Just before I began using Doan's Kidney Pills I was almost paralyzed. I could hardly stand on my feet because of the numbness and lack of circulation. Had a knife been thrust into my kidneys the pain could not have been more intense. My sleep was disturbed by visions of distorted figures. The kidney secretions were annoyingly irregular, and I was tortured with thirst and always bloated. I used seven boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills. The bloating subsided until I weighed 160 pounds less, could sleep like a child and was relieved of the pain and the irregularity of the kidney action. My circulation is good and I feel better in every way."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mrs. Jackson will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, April 25, Wall Street—The stock market opened irregular, with Amalgamated Copper 108⅜, American Smelting 161¼, Anaconda 264, Atchison 89½, Baltimore & Ohio 109⅜, Brooklyn Transit 81¼, Canadian 160¾, Colorado Fuel & Iron 58¾, Erie 41⅝, Louisville 145¾, Northern Pacific 212½, Pennsylvania 139, Reading 125⅜, Southern Railway 38, Southern Pacific 65¼, Union Pacific 150, United States Steel 42½, United States Steel preferred 108, Wabash preferred 43½.

10—Opening prices in the stock market here today showed a moderate sympathetic effect from the higher range in London, and there was a mixture of losses. Anaconda rose 1¾, Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Colorado Fuel & Iron a point, and International Pump ¾. United States Steel opened down ½, and the preferred stock was ⅛ higher. The market was not very active.

11—A moderate decline from the opening indicated light selling pressure and invited buying by the professionals, and there was a general recovery of above yesterday's closing. Reading and Union Pacific were the only leaders in which the movement attained much progress, but there were also a number of less important stocks in which the gains were large.

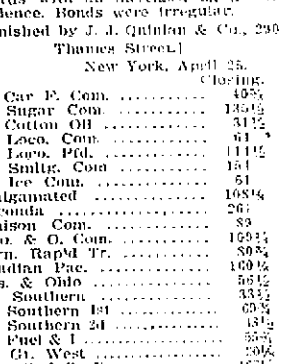

Noon—Money on call, steady, at 1½ to 1¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 5 @ 5¾ per cent. Reading came into heavy demand at an advance of two points, and the whole list moved upwards with an increased show of confidence. Bonds were irregular.

ALBERT HAMMETT.

Death of an Aged and Long-Time Prominent Business Man in Newport.

Mr. Albert Hammett died shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, from shock resulting from a fall about two weeks ago, in which one of the bones of his leg was broken. Shortly after the accident he began to fail mentally, while retaining his physical strength, and no hope was held out for his recovery. He failed steadily and during the last two days of his life death had been expected at any moment.

Albert Hammett was born in this city November 21, 1822, the son of Edward and Amy (Lyon) Hammett, his ancestry having been prominent in the commercial and social interests of the town for many years. He received an education such as was given to boys of the early part of the last century and at the age of 16 entered the office of the late Major Henry Bull, who conducted a lumber business. After a few years he engaged in the dry goods business, in the early fifties in New Bedford, and returning to Newport established himself in the lumber and hardware business at the store on Thames street to which for more than half a century he gave his undivided attention. Started in 1850, the business had the longest continuous existence, with only one exception, of any in Newport. Hon. T. Mumford Seabury, who is but a little more than a year older than Mr. Hammett, antedated him as a shopkeeper on Thames street by eight years.

Mr. Hammett carried on the business at first with John R. Hammett, succeeding his uncle, then alone, and later taking one second then another into partnership, the firm of recent years having been known as A. & H. G. Hammett, the partner being Mr. Harry G. Hammett. Mr. Albert Hammett, even in the last years of his life, never allowed a day to pass in which he did not spend a portion of the day at the store, and was invariably the first on the scene of the day's activity, often making his appearance long before sunrise. As he advanced in years and his health failed he gave but little time to the business, leaving everything to his son and their employes, but always retaining an active interest in its conduct.

He was always interested in the public affairs of his native city, but never accepted office. To the last days on which he was out before his fatal sickness he retained this interest and was always ready to talk about matters of current interest in public life, always having positive ideas of his own and never hesitating to express them in a positive manner. He was a familiar figure on the street, as he walked to and from his place of business, scorning to use the cars until he was compelled by failing health, and his friends and acquaintances were many among all classes in Newport.

Outside of his business Mr. Hammett's principal interest was centered in the church, to which he gave as loyal devotion as to his business. He joined a Congregational church in New Bedford and became a member of the United Congregational church of this city May 7, 1854, having been a member here nearly 52 years. He was for five years the church clerk. He was always to be found in his seat at the regular services, took a deep interest in its charities and general affairs, and while an officer was earnest in the faithful performance of his duties.

Mr. Hammett was twice married, his first wife being S. Llewellyn Swasey, and of this marriage there was one son, Edward Hammett, who has resided for many years in Chicago, where he has been prominent in banking circles, having been at one time cashier of the Lincoln National Bank. His second wife was S. Matilda Howland, also of Newport, and the widow and four children survive—Harry G. Hammett, who is in partnership with his father; Clarence A. Hammett, collector of the port of Newport and well known in real estate and insurance circles here; Marion L., wife of Dr. William S. Greene, and Florence M., wife of Mr. Harry Fletcher Brown.

A SEED CORN INDUSTRY.

Twenty acres is about to be put under cultivation on the island for the growing of seed corn, and another year it will not be surprising if even a greater area is devoted to this purpose. Messrs. Isaac Fish and William Elliott, the former of Portsmouth and the latter of this city, have met such a demand for their corn seed since their prize-taking sugar corns have won medals that their heretofore limited plantings for seed have not proved sufficient; hence the proposed increase of the business which is expected to become one of the industries of the island. The originators of the corn state that they are now receiving orders for the seed from Europe and across the continent to the Pacific coast. As the preservation of the strain depends upon the knowledge of breeding various corns, they expect to hold the growing for seed for their own cultivation.

CLASSES DID UNUSUALLY WELL.

Gymnasium Exhibition One of the Most Successful in the History of the Association.

The twentieth annual exhibition by the gymnasium classes of the Young Men's Christian Association, which took place last evening at Masonic Hall, was one of the most successful in the history of the Association. It was given before an audience which filled all the seats arranged about a large cleared space in the centre of the hall and every one seemed deeply interested in the work of the classes, each class receiving hearty applause at the end of its drill. Physical Director F. H. Caswell personally conducted the drill, and showed that he fully understands his work, not only in his personal directing but in the excellent work of his pupils. The classes did unusually well without exception and the special features—the tumbling by boys of the Providence Association and the fancy club swinging by Miss Thurza Brewistle of Pawtucket—gave an added interest to the exhibition.

The entertainment opened with a selection by the Alpha orchestra, the musical organization connected with the Association, and then came the wooden dumbbell drill by the juniors. Fifty or more boys, active and energetic, took part in this, and showed that they not only liked the work but had profited by their instruction. Next on the program was a novelty for the local gymnasium exhibition, an Indian club drill by the ladies' class. A squad of 20 participated, and gave an excellent performance. The intermediate class gave a wand drill, followed by an iron dumbbell drill by the business men's class and an advanced wand drill by the senior class.

The tumbling by the Providence boys, E. Hiuke, G. Whitemarsh and F. Gilbert, under the direction of their instructor, E. C. Delaporte, showed the possibility of gymnasium work in this direction, and the tumbling and balancing were exceedingly well done for amateurs. The ladies' class appeared again in fancy steps, which were well executed, and members of the junior and intermediate classes gave a clever exhibition of work on the parallel bars, horse and mat work. Miss Thurza Brewistle showed the possibility of fancy club swinging, giving a specially graceful and pleasing display of her ability.

Nine members of the senior class, J. Connors, P. Watterson, J. Barker, A. Neff, C. Mustard, E. F. McDonough, H. Allen, G. Congdon and F. Harvey, followed with advanced work on the parallel bars, and the exhibition closed with an obstacle race by two squads of the juniors, to show the possibilities of these contests.

The music for the marches and class work was by Miss Florence Carley, who has been the pianist at the gymnasium during the past winter.

MARDEN-GLADDING.

A pretty wedding took place last evening in the chapel of the Thames Street Methodist Episcopal Church, when Mr. James F. Marden was married to Miss Bessie Gladding, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Gladding. With the aid of potted plants, palms, rugs, tables and lamps the chapel was converted into an attractive drawing room.

The bride, with her father and bridesmaid, Miss Katherine Burdick, a cousin of the bride, were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Arthur Fairbrother of New York, a cousin of the groom. Rev. Ernest W. Burch performed the ceremony, before and after which Mr. Victor Baxter played the church organ, whose strains could be heard in the chapel.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white net over white taffeta. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley, and her tulle veil was caught with lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a dainty gown of pink organdie, and carried pink carnations.

A reception followed the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Marden left on the 9:15 train for Boston. Owing to a recent death in the family only relatives and a few friends were present. Upon their return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Marden will reside at 45 Friendship street.

WITH THE TORPEDO BOATS.

Tug Nina has returned to the Torpedo Station after an overhauling. She has been equipped with a hoisting mast forward and is designed to handle torpedoes or other material used in the torpedo practice here. Practice ship Vesuvius was expected to go up the bay yesterday for her first practice shooting, but the stormy weather was too much for good work. The same conditions prevail today and she did not start. The Dahlgrens and Craven have been doing some practice shooting when the weather conditions were some what favorable.

BROOKLYN HORSE SHOW PRIZES.

At the Brooklyn horse show last evening Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt won one first and two second prizes. The blue ribbon was taken by Polly Prim and Full Dress in the class for pairs of carriage horses, exceeding 15.2 hands, and the reds with Polly Prim in the class for victoria equipages, and with Rustling Silk and The Youngster in the class for tandems. In the victoria class the Vanderbilt entry was beaten by Judge W. H. Moore's Pilot, and in the tandem class by Judge Moore's Diplomat and Senator. In the pair class the Vanderbilt entry beat Judge Moore's White Gate Majesty and White Gate Lovell.

IDEAL SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER

Subject of the Address by Rev. Carlton P. Mills Before the Newport Association.

The second meeting of the newly organized Sunday School Association of Newport and vicinity was held in the Emmanuel Parish Rooms last evening. Rev. E. H. Porter, D. D., presided at the opening exercises, after which Dr. Clarence A. Carr was elected secretary of the meeting. Next came the roll-call of parishes—St. Columba's, St. Paul's, St. Mary's and

REV. WILLIAM SAFFORD JONES.
Pastor of Channing Memorial Church.

Holy Cross, Trinity, Emmanuel, St. George's and St. John's.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Carlton P. Mills, diocesan secretary of the Sunday School Commission of Massachusetts. Mr. Mills in opening spoke briefly of the work of Massachusetts in the modern Sunday School movement, and then considered the ideal of the Sunday School teacher. The Sunday School Commission of Massachusetts was organized five or six years ago, 160 schools now forming the Sunday School Union of the diocese, of Massachusetts. There are 10 local branches of this union, with sub-organizations, holding meetings two or three times a year. Sunday Schools heretofore have been too parochial, too individualistic, but now the tendency is to appreciate the need of interchange of life and of uniting other weaker schools. One person, Mr. Mills, is in charge of the commission, and last August a definite course of study on the graded plan was laid out, corresponding to the 13 grades of the public schools. Seventy-five of the 160 schools of Massachusetts have already adopted the course of study as far as it is consistent with local conditions. With a new curriculum the necessity arises of making the teachers more efficient, and this need, it is hoped, will soon be met by a normal training school in Boston.

Certainly the ideal Sunday School teacher's supreme quality is religion but this, without efficiency in teaching, has brought the Sunday School into disrepute. The complacent attitude toward the defects of the Sunday School and the failure to make demands on the teachers have brought about a poor opinion of the school on the part of parents, teachers and pupils. It is not expected that we can go in one bound from unequipped teachers to equipped teachers, but it is expected that we should not stand still, but should brace ourselves to change conditions.

Mr. Mills then enumerated the defects of the Sunday School as, first, a lack of compelling public sentiment, second, a lack of time for instruction which should, however, be an argument for doing the work scientifically and well; third, a lack of well-trained teachers; fourth, inadequate financial support, and fifth, poor equipment. Every teacher should do everything in his power to make himself a better teacher, and from these endeavors there will be practical results. In conclusion, Mr. Mills urged his hearers not to rest until even greater respect is given the Sunday School than the day school.

In the absence of Dr. Porter, Rev. Ralph B. Pomeroy, after the offering had been taken, brought the meeting to a close by brief remarks, after which cocoa and crackers were served.

LIEUTENANT LAWTON RE-ELECTED.

Lieutenant Charles E. Lawton was last evening elected for the third time commander of the Second division of the Rhode Island Naval Battalion, of this city. The election was presided over by Commander W. C. Bliss of the battalion, according to orders issuing from the adjutant general's office. Lieutenant Lawton, as on the occasion of his previous elections, had no opponent for the position. When the Spanish-American war broke out he was navigator of the battalion and went into the navy as ensign. In the spring of 1899, when Lieutenant M. W. Hall resigned the command of the local company, to which position he was appointed soon after the war broke out, in order that he might enter the navy, Lieutenant Lawton was appointed to assume the command of the company, and a year later was elected by the company as its commander.

CAUGHT IN A SHANTY.

Fire Destroys a Stable, With a Horse, Wagon and Other Stock, on Marchant Street.

About 1:35 this morning an alarm was rung in from box 61, at the No. 6 engine house, for what looked like a lively blaze in the Marchant Street district. When the apparatus arrived it was found that an improvised shanty built by the colored man who looks after the dump had caught fire and was practically a thing of the past, and had set fire to the barn of Mr. Alexander Booth, next adjacent, and that was well under way. The fire was soon subdued by the firemen, the recall coming in less than 20 minutes after the alarm. Considerable damage was done to Mr. Booth's property, however. One horse was lost, as was a wagon and considerable stock, which was stored on the premises, together with harness and stable fittings.

The fire was discovered by Officer Buckley, who was on his way to his beat, and notified Officer Taylor. The officers with neighbors did everything they could to rescue the horse in the barn, but without success, as the fire and smoke had a big headway when they reached the scene.

The shed of the colored man has been considered a fire trap by the firemen. A stove was kept in the shed and a pipe laid through the side in a way to suggest a fire, and the fire came.

THE LANDING STEPS FLOATS.

The two floats for the landing steps at Long wharf are practically done at the Newport shipyard. They are 25 by 10 feet, and will be placed one at the steps at City wharf and the other at the steps at the angle where the old bridge once was. When they are in position some new arrangement will need to be made about the mooring of lobster boats. This morning the lobster boats were all in and there was no chance for anything larger than a skiff to reach either steps.

NEW GASOLINE LAUNCH FOR WILLIAM BUTLER DUNCAN.

A new gasoline launch for William Butler Duncan of New York, the well known amateur yachtsman and former manager of cup yacht Constitution, was launched yesterday at the Herreshoff shops at Bristol. This craft is to be a speedy one, according to her lines and driving power, and while not intended to have the speed of some of the crack automobile boats she will without doubt be among the fastest of the launches of the present day. The boat is 45 feet in length, with a beam of 7 feet, 4 inches, and a draught of only a few inches.

LA GRECQUE
The Queen of Corsets.
Who ever saw a poor figure, when the owner wore a pair of these corsets? Who ever heard of a corset made equal to it? Who among you has been so unfortunate to wear any other kind? To you we have a message.
We have 25 different styles always on hand. There is no figure or shape that we cannot fit. A corset that fits young or old; stout or thin. A corset that is suited to every figure, and any person, even if a deformity should exist, finds the LA GRECQUE of benefit. It fits so well and closely that the most noted people of the day have endorsed it.
Heavily boned with a Van Orden patent double aluminoid boning, which lies front and back of the hip bone and not upon it. Finished in Coutil, Batiste, Jean, Satin, and Silk. Leaves no ridge to show, even through an unlined skirt. There can be no rolling up of flesh over the edges.
No shifting motion to a fleshy figure that wears a LA GRECQUE. Bust curves are full and begin low, so that the corset can not push up. No corset ever made can compare with them in wearing qualities. No corset is as all around good and you have never enjoyed the sensation of feeling well, and looking your best, unless you have had a pair on.
From $1.00 up.
